

Hello CLC Community,

As you may know, the Pennsylvania Department of Health reported 180 new COVID-19 cases today in Centre County. As we let you know yesterday, the PA Department of Health (DOH) and Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE) does not recommend transitioning to remote learning yet, but we understand if families choose to have their students participate in remote learning until we can confirm with both organizations that their guidance remains the same after the substantial rise in cases. PDE and DOH will be meeting with all Centre County schools tomorrow afternoon, and we will pass along any further information or guidance that we are given.

In the meantime, CLC will remain open for in-class instruction, but if you are more comfortable having your child participate in remote learning, we fully understand.
